

Please forward this to colleagues who may be interested. We look forward to welcoming you to our event soon.

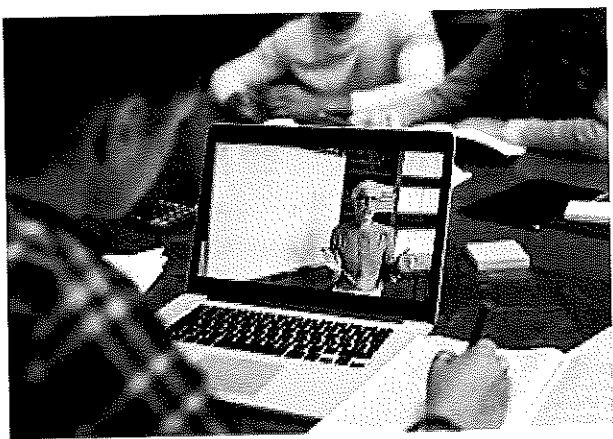

Yours sincerely,

NUS Centre for Development of Teaching and Learning

NUS Global Relations Office

Re-examining teaching and learning in challenging times: What are our assessment options?

An online seminar and discussion

 June 11th, 2020 (Thursday)

 3:00PM - 4:30PM (GMT +8)

 Register at
<https://tinyurl.com/NUSwebinar2020>

Featuring a panel of ASEAN experts:

Panel member
Manneke Budiman
Director of Academic Development and Learning Resources
Universitas Indonesia

Panel member
Farrah Dina Yusop
Director of Academic Enhancement and Leadership Development Centre
University of Malaya

Panel member
Mark Gan
Assoc. Director of Centre for Development of Teaching and Learning
National University of Singapore

Panel member
Jessada Salathong
Former Asst to the President for Intl Affairs & Lecturer, Faculty of Communication Arts
Chulalongkorn University

Chair
Adrian Lee
Deputy Director of Centre for Development of Teaching and Learning
National University of Singapore

About our Panel members

Manneke Budiman (Indonesia) is currently Director of Academic Development and Learning Resources, Universitas Indonesia. Prior to this appointment, he was the Vice-Dean for Academic, Research, and Student Affairs, at the Faculty of Humanities UI. He teaches literature and cultural studies in the Literature Department, the Humanities UI.

[Invitation] NUS Online seminar and discussion on “Re-examining Teaching and Learning in Challenging Times: What are our assessment options?”

Lim Zheng Dao Charlton A. <charlton.a.lim@nus.edu.sg>

1 June 2020 at 15:29

1 June 2020

Dear Partners and Colleagues,

NUS warmly invites you and your colleagues to a special online seminar on “Re-examining Teaching and Learning in Challenging Times: What are our assessment options?”

As the world was forced to confront new challenges arising from the pandemic, teaching and learning have largely shifted from the physical classroom to the digital realm. While we may now be quite familiar with using a myriad of online tools for teaching, the landscape of assessments remains an underexplored territory for most of us. What alternative assessment options can we consider to complement online teaching to ensure academic rigour and parity for our students?

This online discussion gathers a panel of experts from leading ASEAN universities in the region to share their experiences with alternative assessments and to re-examine assessment options in light of our new situation.

More details can be found in the poster appended below.

Date: 11 June 2020 (Thursday)

Time: 3:00PM to 4:30PM (GMT +8)

Click here to register

After registering, you will receive a confirmation email containing information about joining the webinar.

Farrah Dina Yusop (Malaysia) is the Director of the University of Malaya's Academic Enhancement and Leadership Development Centre (ADEC), a center dedicated to enhance the professional development of the University's academic staff. Under the #UMTeachOnline program, the Centre is actively administering various activities to assist UM academics in online teaching and learning. She holds a PhD in two fields: Curriculum and Instructional Technology (CIT) and Human Computer Interaction (HCI) from Iowa State University, USA. Dr. Farrah is an active scholar-researcher-practitioner in the areas of higher education, Web 2.0, social media, educational games and mobile learning. She is interested in the design and development of technology-enhanced teaching and learning solutions to improve people's personal and professional development.

Mark Gan (Singapore) is an Associate Director and academic developer of the Centre for Development of Teaching and Learning (CDTL) in NUS. He has been involved in a wide variety of initiatives and programmes to enhance professional development of staff within faculties, schools and beyond, such as the course for faculty members on developing a Teaching Portfolio for growth and promotion purposes. As a co-leader of SoTL-Asia Special Interest Group on Assessment and Feedback, he has organized discussion sessions and encouraged colleagues to participate and share ideas on issues close to their hearts about assessment policies and feedback practices. His research interests lie in the areas of feedback and assessment, reflective practice and the impact of academic development work on approaches to teaching and learning.

Jessada Salathong (Thailand) is a former Assistant to the President for International Affairs and lecturer at the Faculty of Communication Arts, Chulalongkorn University, Thailand. He is also a radio host for the award-winning "Good Morning ASEAN" programme and TV news anchor. Dr. Jessada holds MA and PhD in International Studies from Waseda University, Japan, under Japanese Government Scholarship. He is an advocate of ESD (Education for Sustainable Development). His MA and PhD research focus on the role of media coverage to promote ESD. He was a youth representative at UNESCO World Conference on ESD, 2009. His research interests lie in areas of the usage of social media among young citizen in ASEAN, fact-checking, creative industry, climate change communication and communication for sustainable development.

Chaired by

Adrian Lee (Singapore) is currently the Deputy Director of the Centre for Development of Teaching and Learning (CDTL) at the National University of Singapore (NUS). His primary responsibility is overseeing professional development programmes. Adrian's background is in the Sciences—he holds a PhD in Chemistry. He came to Singapore in 2002 on a Singapore Millennium Foundation Scholarship and subsequently joined NUS in 2005. His interests in education are wide-ranging and include technology-enhanced learning, especially blended learning, interdisciplinary education, and student living-learning experiences. In academic development, Adrian looks to build programmes within a collegial culture and further a conversation that is both evidence-based and research-informed that becomes part of an academic's scholarly reflective teaching practice.

Important: This email is confidential and may be privileged. If you are not the intended recipient, please delete it and notify us immediately; you should not copy or use it for any purpose, nor disclose its contents to any other person. Thank you.

NUS Webinar on Digital Assessment.pdf

153K

Topic Re-examining Teaching and Learning in Challenging Times: What are our assessment options?

Time Jun 11, 2020 03:00 PM in Singapore

First Name *

Last Name *

Email Address *

Confirm Email Address *

Country/Region *

Thailand

Organization *

Job Title *

Please feel free to ask our panel a question related to our topic.

Required information

Register

